

From time to time volunteer or professional photographers will be on site to capture images of the garden and the activity surrounding it. These images will be used to document the growth and care taken of the garden as well as activities related to Operation Seed to Harvest programs. You and/or your child may be part of those photos if you are on the site where Operation Seed to Harvest operates. The images are to share our progress and joy with others and market our programs. The photographer may use one or more photos to build the photographer's portfolio. The images will never be sold, but may appear in printed material and/or online for Operation Seed to Harvest or its affiliates.
